

The updated Judiciary website incorporates new features and organizational ideals that we hope improve the user’s experience. The site follows standard guidelines for handicap accessibility, guaranteeing that the viewer will be able to find and access the information they seek no matter the circumstance.

Latest News

A new feature on the homepage is the addition of a “Latest News” scroll that will provide new and important information court users need to know.

Latest News

“Alert Bar”

The alert bar is a new feature that will show information like court closures, argument days, webcast events, and any other notable event the public need to know.

Information For:

Public

Jurors

Attorneys

Media

“Information For”

There are four information icons on the homepage: Public, Jurors, Attorneys, and Media. Each icon contains links and short descriptions to the pages most visited by the public, jurors, attorneys, and media. New links will be added to each section as necessary.

Resources

Based on statistics, we have added eight resource icons with links to the top consistently clicked on pages: Court Information By County, Court Forms, Supreme Court Opinions, Intermediate Court Opinions, Supreme Court Calendar, Intermediate Court Calendar, E-Filing, and Payments.

The Topic and Category drop list(s) can be used for quick filtering or you can start typing in the search box.

Updated Decision List

The Decision List looks the same but now has a search box that searches anything in the decision list. Date Filed column continues to default in descending (most recent) order.

Court Information by County

One of the most used features on the site, court information by county, will have the same look and feel. However, the hyperlinks on the judges’ names will now link to just their photo and bio if they have given permission to publish me.

Mobile Device Adaptability

The updated site is ready for use on digital devices with a web browser, actively adapting and changing to provide the best user experience possible. As device sizes change from pc to phone, so does the website, displaying a user interface created to promote the strengths of the environment it is being used in.
